Updates of the program may result from adding additional elements, functional properties, or even providing solutions of identified problems. OptiFeed is a program that updates itself, i.e. the process of updating both the program and database is fully automatic. When it is opened, the program checks Internet connection and try to first connect to update server. If a program update has been prepared since the time of last check, the program will inform on the progress of its installation.

In case of problems with updating, please contact us at the address: support@lpdsoft.com.

Attention: Date of last program update, and hence database can be checked in the information window activated by the << About >> button in the << HELP >> menu.
